

"Today's Classroom May be the Final Battle Ground of the Civil War"

William Jenkins

School Evaluation

There are four main components of a school: students, teachers, administrators and parents. The degree to which these groups do their jobs will typically determine the effectiveness of any school. Evaluate your school by circling the number that best represents your view of these four crucial areas.

0 = Extremely Poor 5 = Average 10 = Outstanding/Excellent

Students come to school eager and prepared to learn. They have the right attitude, proper behavior, and are respectful of teachers and the school environment.

0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

Teachers are prepared and willing to teach the students who are at that school at that time. They know their subject matter, are passionate about teaching and are concerned about young people, education, and the country.

0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

Administration maintains an atmosphere conducive to teaching and learning. The school's mission is clearly articulated, it's rules and expectations are clearly stated, widely published and evenly enforced. The administration sees to it that the teachers have the support and resources they need to do their job.

0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

Parents monitor their children's education and take appropriate action when it is or is not taking place. They send their children to school disciplined and motivated. They communicate their hopes for their children to the teachers and they are accessible to the teachers for constructive conversations about their children.

0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

William Jenkins Enterprises

P.O. Box 15134 | St. Louis Missouri 63110

314-652-7933 | 314-533-1850-fax | wisdom@mvp.net